IMPACT REPORT

*ADVANCING - IN AND BEYOND THE GAME -
THE NEXT GENERATION OF IMPACT PLAYERS*

PRESENTED BY  rippleworx

TPH ACADEMY IMPACT PLAYERS OF THE YEAR

DREW BROSS

ELIOT
DE LEON

ISABELLA
REESE

At TPH Academy, our core purpose is to advance the next generation of impact players, and this 2022-23 academic year, for the first time, we were thrilled to introduce our TPH Impact Player of the Year Award winners and nominees.

In fact, the highlight of my year was getting to connect with our 3 winners - Bella, Drew, and Eliot - and their families to give a hearty congratulations and a thank you for the example they set amongst their peers each day. Descriptions of our Impact Players of the Year include:

“A role model for the younger female hockey players” | “Taking unprompted responsibility” | “Breaking new ground every day” | “Pushes peers to the next level” | “Leading by example” | “Kindness and ability to bring people together” | “Someone that all the students look up to” | “Treats every single individual with the utmost respect” | “Sets the bar and tone each day”

Of course, holistic development precedes the advancement of impact players, and it’s in this prerequisite that our team strives to lead the world. Our teammates bring a remarkable passion to student-athlete development, and it’s a great source of pride for me that these same teammates saw us fit to be awarded the 2022 Best Employers in Sports recognition by Front Office Sports - a first for TPH.

Another first, our team expanded north of the border! TPH Academy launched in Canada with our acquisition of and partnership with Total Package Hockey in London, Ontario. We also forged our first major junior hockey partnership, becoming the Official Academic Provider for the OHL’s Kitchener Rangers.

Speaking of partnerships, we joined forces with RippleWorx to develop and launch our cutting edge TPH Performance App. Housing all TPH student-athlete performance data across academics, athletics, and wellness, this new, artificial intelligence-driven analytics platform will supercharge student-athlete talent development.

We also expanded our impact by formally launching Powered by TPH, which delivers a range of offerings to organizations that want to pair TPH Academy’s capabilities with their own brand and infrastructure, creating a world-class experience for their families as a result.

Finally, returning to where I began with advancing the next generation of impact players, our milestone launch in 2022-23 was the TPH Impact Player Foundation. The Foundation will support TPH’s core purpose by providing scholarships and financial support to student-athletes and their families.

And with that, thank you for being on this journey with us, and please do enjoy our 2022-23 TPH Academy Impact Report, featuring incredible accomplishments by our student-athletes throughout the year. From academic and athletic achievements to community service, these young people shine both as a squad and individually.

Here’s to the next generation of Impact Players.

Impact Players of the Year

Congratulations to TPH Academy's three Impact Players of the Year and 18 nominees!

Meet Drew Bross – TPH Academy – St. Louis

- Grade 10th
- Hockey | 2006
- Forward | Right Shot
- AAA Blues u16

Athletic Achievements:

- Drafted to Sioux City of the USHL
- Selected to Team TPH for OHL Cup
- Made USA Hockey National Development Camp
- Two-time Student-athlete of the Month
- Leader at the academy always

Philip McRae, Rachel Mohr, and Molly Porfidio about DREW: Drew is one of the most talented hockey players at the academy and is a USHL draft pick with expectations to play Jr Hockey and beyond. But more importantly, we are fortunate in St. Louis to have someone that all the students look up to as the hardest worker, the most consistent worker, and the most dedicated student-athlete.

He treats every single individual no matter the age, grade, or club level with the utmost respect. Drew is humble. Drew leads by example. And Drew sets the bar and tone each and every day at TPH St. Louis. We can always pull a student aside and say, “who do you look up to?”. The answer is always “Drew”.

“I am proud to be a part of the TPH family, so it is really special to be recognized by an organization I love and respect so much. My Grandpa instilled in me to always strive to be better than the day prior. I am extremely fortunate to have such great people around me, the environment that has been built is truly special, it is like family. Coach Phil and the entire TPH staff have provided me with a platform that allows me to be better each and every day. The effort put into every student is the reason for all of our successes, they provided us knowledge not just on our sport and academics, but on how to be a better person.”

- Drew Bross

Meet Isabella Reese – TPH Academy Nashville

- Grade 11
- Hockey | 19U AA Jr. Predators
- Defenseman

Athletic Achievements:

- 19U AA Nashville Jr. Predators Girls Team
- National Champion

Jen Cubides and Patrick O'Neill about BELLA: She has grown so much during her time at TPH. Being one of the only female hockey players at the Academy, it is not easy to break new ground. Bella has not only overcome her fears of getting on the ice with all male skaters, but has also been a role model for the younger female hockey players. She now advocates for herself by communicating with teachers, coaches and other adults.

She exemplifies leadership skills by taking unprompted responsibility for things such as being the main contributor to the yearbook and mentoring younger girls. She is breaking new ground every day. Her hard work paid off by her being a major contributor to the Nashville Jr Preds U19 girls National Championship this year. She is a delight to work with and she makes an impact every day at the Academy. It has been so fun to watch her growth.

“[TPH] has helped me build my confidence on the ice in a huge way. By training with other players at a higher level than me, they were able to help me build my strengths and help me get to a higher level. Without TPH, I wouldn't be where I am today.”

- Isabella Reese
